WALL STREET CONSENSUS MONITOR

Tracking ideas from top market publications and analysts.

<http://www.WallStreetConsensusMonitor.com>

The Wall Street Consensus Monitor tracks scores of well established investment newsletters selecting the newsletters that have been the most successful during the last few definable market intervals. The periods examined are long enough so that the newsletters would have to outperform its peers during different market climates, up to and including the current market phase. The current buy recommendations issued by these successful newsletters are then monitored to find consensus among the opinions of dozens of advisors. This data is then parsed into useful tables that give both a comprehensive and accessible view of the consensus that exists among these top performing stock newsletters. In addition to this core information, news briefs concerning analysts' comments and actions, and a wider view of the universe of buy recommendations of the top consensus stocks are provided. This results in the finished product, an erudition of the concurrence of agreement within the collected judgment of the top performing newsletters.

NEWS BRIEFS

(AAPL) Apple Inc.

(2/9/2010) Needham & Company raised its price target on Apple to $280, from $235. Needham cites forecasts of stronger sales of the MAC and iPhone, and projected contribution from sales of the iPad to Apple's valuation.

(ABX) Barrick Gold Corp.

(2/8/2010) Deutsche Bank has initiated coverage of Barrick Gold with a rating of hold. The firm says it prefers gold companies with higher free cash flow. Deutsche Bank projected gold prices to average around $1,150 an ounce in 2010 and $1,250 in 2011.

(AMZN) Amazon.com Inc.

(2/8/2010) Collins Stewart raised its rating on Amazon.com to buy, and set at a price target at $150. Collins Stewart believes that after falling 15 percent from its recent highs, Amazon is at an attractive entry point. Collins Stewart cautions that higher competition remains a concern for the Kindle franchise. However, the firm says the Kindle ecosystem is much bigger than Wall Street previously thought. Collins Stewart analyst Sandeep Aggarwal has produced an estimate that Amazon will sell 3.85 million Kindles in 2010. He projects that this will amount to 2.5 billion in sales and produce a profit $650 million. In a research note Aggarwal wrote, "Though Wal-Mart and e-Bay are clearly trying to compete more effectively with Amazon for the growing E-Commerce market, Amazon, remains the gold standard with operational excellence, scale, and customer satisfaction second to none. In addition to being the biggest beneficiary of the secular adoption of E-Commerce, Amazon will continue to drive benefits from new categories in the US, expanding categories internationally, upside in FBA, and higher propensity to purchase by Prime members."

(BRK.B) Berkshire Hathaway Inc.

(2/8/2010) In the "Blue Chip Investor" dated 02/01/10, editor Steven Check comments on the Berkshire stock split. He points out that the split does not change the intrinsic value of Berkshire Hathaway. Nor does inclusion in the S&P 500 index have an effect on the earnings of its subsidiaries. Check points out that since Berkshire's acquisitions are done with cash; a higher share price caused by inclusion in the S&P 500 would not aid in future acquisitions. Check believes the intrinsic value of Berkshire is approximately $94 per share.

(DIS) Walt Disney Company

(2/8/2010) JPMorgan raised its rating on Disney to Neutral.

(ECA) EnCana Corp.

(2/12/2010) Canaccord Adams raised its rating on EnCana from hold to buy, and its price target from $32 to $35. Canaccord believes that key resource plays will continue to be EnCana's growth engine and its means to maintain control over costs. In a research note, Canaccord Adams wrote, "The emerging Devonian shale resource play at Horn River is graduating to commercial development, providing visible growth for several years. The company is in a strong financial position with forecasted debt to cash flow of 1.7x and has a low cost structure."

(GG) Goldcorp Inc.

(2/8/2010) Deutsche Bank has initiated coverage of Goldcorp with a rating of hold. The firm says it prefers gold companies with higher free cash flow. Deutsche Bank projected gold prices to average around $1,150 an ounce in 2010 and $1,250 in 2011.

(KGC) Kinross Gold Corporation

(2/8/2010) Deutsche Bank has initiated coverage of Kinross Gold with a rating of buy. The firm says it prefers gold companies with higher free cash flow. Deutsche Bank projected gold prices to average around $1,150 an ounce in 2010 and $1,250 in 2011.

(NVDA) NVIDIA Corp.

(2/8/2010) FBR Research has reiterated a rating of market perform on NVIDIA. Its price target was raised from $16 to $17. FBR Research says that the price target is based on an 18x multiple on estimated 2010 earnings per share. Calendar 2010 pro forma EPS estimate was raised from $0.75 to $0.80. A 2011 estimate was initiated at $1.00. In a research note the firm wrote that, "While we maintain our Market Perform rating for now given increasing chipset revenue risk in 2H10 and 2011, we could look to get more constructive on shares if earnings power ramps more than expected, or if the stock moves down towards the $13, $14 level."

(2/10/2010) Oppenheimer has raised its price target on Nvidia from $20 to $24.

(PBR) Petroleo Brasileiro SA

(2/10/2010) Credit Suisse issued an analyst note saying that the share price of Petrobras has been damaged by misconceptions regarding its planned share sale. Credit Suisse rates Petrobras at outperform, and has a price target of $58.

(2/10/2010) Standpoint Research has raised its rating on Petrobras from hold to buy.

(PEP) PepsiCo Inc.

(2/8/2010) Bank of America/Merrill Lynch raised its price target on PepsiCo Inc. from $67 to $69. The firm reiterated its buy rating on PepsiCo Inc.

(SCHW) Charles Schwab Corp.

(2/12/2010) - Charles Schwab Corp released its Monthly Market Activity Report. Total client assets were $1.401 trillion as of month-end January, up 27% from January 2009 and down 2% from December 2009.

(SO) Southern Company

(2/8/2010) Forbes.com reports that Jack Adamo of Jack Adamo's Insiders PLUS favors Southern Company. He sees Southern as one of the steadiest growing electric utilities in the United States. Adamo points to the company's dominant position in the Southern United States, a compound annual total return of 14.7% for the last 10 years, and a yield of 5.2%. Jack Adamo finds Southern Company to be a buy, up to the share price of $40.

(2/8/2010) Roger S. Conrad of the Roger Conrad's Utility Forecaster, commented that the proposed fiscal year 2011 federal budget contains a $36 billion loan authority to finance the construction of nuclear power plants in the United States, which will benefit companies like Entergy Corp, SCANA Corp and Southern Company.
